FOUR GROUPS ACT JOINTLY FOR BUSINESS

Become Partners of Government in Great U. S. Co-operative Movement

MAP WORKING PROGRAM
Various Federal Departments Keep Close Touch With Outside Groups

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1929 by Post Pub. Co.)

Washington — Business and government have become partners, for the time being at least, in the biggest effort at cooperation since the World war. Officials are cautious about saying that the organization now being forged will be permanent, but certainly it is expected to bridge the gap of industrial transition.

The movement thus far has been divided into four groups—business which includes finance and transportation as well as production, a second group, labor which includes labor organizations whether affiliated with the American Federation of Labor or not, a third group, agriculture, which embraces all classes of farm organizations, and finally the government group which is subdivided so as to cooperate with each of the foregoing groups.

Thus the department of commerce is the link between the government and the business group; the department of labor is working with the employe groups, while the federal farm board and the department of agriculture are joined with the farm organizations.

Members of the federal reserve board and the treasury department officials are to sit in with the business group. This general scheme has been made necessary by the fact that organizations like the American Bankers' association exist separately from such institutions as the chamber of commerce of the United States. In fact until the present groups were formed there were no direct links which could be said to embrace all the activities in a given sphere.

EXIST IN NEW FORM
These groups, however, are in a sense new. They always have existed, of course, in a general way but never in a form that permitted extensive government cooperation. Indeed, often owing to friction within a group of industry separate organizations.

TWO PERSONS KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Milwaukee—(P)—Two persons, one an 18-month-old baby, were killed in automobile accidents here last night. The baby, Richard Smith, was killed when his mother's car crashed into a machine driven by a 16-year-old girl, Virginia Sieg, who was injured seriously. Both cars turned over. Mrs. Caroline Bowers, who held Richard on her lap, sustained concussion of the brain and lacerations about the head and body. Mrs. Sadie Smith, the infant's mother, escaped injury.

Fred Stoeck, 68, was fatally injured when he stepped from behind a streetcar into the path of an automobile.

CUTTER BACK FROM ARCTIC WITH MANY RESCUES TO CREDIT

Oakland, Calif.—(P)—The coast guard cutter Northland, displaying a flag filled with accounts of various rescues during the winter months, was back in winter anchorage here today. She returned yesterday from her seasonal trip to the Arctic which required 14,000 miles of sailing.

Among the achievements of the vessel's crew, outside of regular duties were:

- Rescue of 15 shipwrecked sailors from the Norwegian ship Edna. They were stranded on the Siberian coast.
- Rescue of two soldiers of the Russian white army, starving on a bleak Diomed island in the Bering Sea.
- Rescue of the disabled Walrus, hunting schooner, Dorothy, which was towed 100 miles to port for repairs.
- Rescue of three Jim Allen and 30 Eskimoes starving at Wainwright. They were frozen to the Walrus, which was where the Eskimoes launched skin boats and shot Walrus for food.
- Rescue of the Pilot Bennett of an Alaskan commercial airplane service, forced down on an island.

When asked what his men did for diversion during the northern cruise, Commander Edward D. Jones said: "They read adventure magazines to get thrills."

Two Shot By Robbers In Milwaukee

Young Gunmen Stage Series of Holdups at Filling Stations and Inns

Milwaukee—(P)—Their guns blazing, two youthful bandits from Missouri and Kansas completed a series of holdups and wounded two men while all available police and deputies in Milwaukee chased them early today. Hours later, betrayed by their stolen automobile, Clarence Wright, Leavenworth, Kas., and Walter Mitchell, St. Joseph, Mo., were arrested and held in connection with the robberies and shootings.

The two wanted by the bandits were: Fred Komesky, 35, a one-arm World war veteran, shot three times, and John Kerzall, 17, shot in the arm.

In five successful robberies and one unsuccessful one, the youths obtained $338. All of the holdups were of filling stations and inns.

The shootings occurred when the two entered the Subway Inn. The ex-soldier grappled with one of the bandits and hurled him through a door. The pair then ran to their car and as they sped past a window, Mitchell said he emptied his guns at the patrons. Komesky was wounded in the leg, thigh, and shoulder. His condition was reported serious.

Escaping a police dragnet, the bandits continued their rampage, and were not apprehended until their car was discovered in a garage in Milwaukee. A check of hotels revealed their whereabouts.

At police headquarters, they were said to have admitted stealing the car in Missouri. They arrived in Milwaukee yesterday and planned their raids, they said.

ANTI-TRUST ACTION AGAINST FILM GROUPS

New York—(P)—Attorney General William Mitchell today began two anti-trust proceedings against the Fox and Warner Brothers and other film interests, charging violation of the Clayton act. The complaints were filed in the United States district court here.

One names Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., Stanley Company of America, controlling 25,041 shares of First National pictures, Inc., as defendants.

In the other complaint the Fox Theatres corporation, Fox Film corporation and William Fox are named defendants.

Recent expansion activities by Fox and Warner Brothers' interests, involving the purchase of stock and control in competing companies, is said to be the cause of action.

HIGHWAY CHIEF IN CONFAB WITH KOHLER

Madison—(P)—Jerry Donahue, chairman of the state highway commission, today conferred with Gov. Walter J. Kohler on highway matters, according to executive office communications. No statement was forthcoming as to whether the talks on possibility of a special legislative session to change Wisconsin's system of accepting federal highway funds from county administration to state control of funds.

Highway department officers said no word had been received up to Tuesday night from the federal bureau of roads regarding its decision on whether Wisconsin must change its system immediately. Such word would go direct to the governor, it was said.

Santa Claus Says He Will Be Glad To Visit In Appleton

Santa Claus has consented to visit Appleton.

That brief was the word received by radiogram this morning by Mayor A. C. Rule from Mr. Claus at his North Star lodge and factory at North Pole. The mayor last Sunday sent a telegram to Santa Claus, the telegram only got as far as Nome, Alaska. There it was found that several snow storms and blizzards had destroyed the wire lines to the North Pole and it was necessary to forward the message by radiogram.

After considerable difficulty as a result of interference from the Northern Lights the message was sent through and Santa Claus answered briefly as follows:

"Glad to come to Appleton. Stop! Busy as blazes right now but will take a couple of days off to visit your city. Stop! Record shows kiddies exceptionally well last year. Stop! Further details will be sent as soon as storms up here have ended and we can get on air without trouble. Stop."

When the mayor received this message he immediately called in a number of the members of the retail division of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce who are going to prepare plans for Santa Claus' reception. It is hoped that he will be able to bring his reindeer, Dunder and Blitzen and Basher and Donner.

As soon as it was learned definitely that Santa Claus was coming to Appleton the retailers told A. C. Mealing, county superintendent of schools, that they wanted to issue a special invitation to Outagamie county rural school children to come to Appleton to meet Santa Claus. They explained he would be much too busy as soon as he arrived to visit all the children in this district come to Appleton to meet him. Mr. Mealing said he would relay the invitations to the rural schools and give the teachers permission to close school on Monday afternoon, Dec. 2, to give the children a chance to come to the city and meet Santa Claus.

So far the preparations for Santa Claus' reception and places where he will make headquarters while in Appleton are in a tentative state but have complex details. These arrangements will be announced as the boys and girls will know where to come to meet the man from the North Pole who fills their stockings every Christmas eve without fail.

Chinese Declare Truce In Civil War

HINT BRIBES PAID REBELS; STRIKE STOPS

Nationalists Allow Kuominchun Degree of Recognition for Peace

Tokio—(P)—The Japanese Rengo news agency received a dispatch from Harbin, Manchuria, tonight, stating:

"Soviet troops are believed to have withdrawn from the railway zone." This, if true, indicates the probability that the Russians have evacuated the area of northwestern Manchuria and returned over the course of this invasion of Manchuria which began Nov. 18.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Abrupt cessation of hostilities on China's civil war fronts in Honan and Hupoh provinces was disclosed today in a series of dispatches, some of which hinted that the war-ravaged Nationalist government had paid its enemies for the truce.

Advices from Hankow said fighting between the rebellious Kuominchun, or "People's army," and Nationalist troops had stopped with a suddenness that took all observers by surprise, although it had been known that negotiations were going on between the factional leaders.

Chiang Kai-shek, president of the Nationalist government and head of its military forces, returned today to Nanking with a purported program of "sweeping changes" which is expected to give his late enemies, the Kuominchun, a measure of recognition.

Simultaneously the "People's army" was reported to be evacuating both Honan and Hupoh. Nationalist troops which had been fighting the Kuominchun were said to be withdrawing also, many of them heading for Kwangtung province to resist another revolutionary movement aimed against Canton.

Japanese dispatches to Shanghai from Hankow, quoting sources usually well informed asserted reports had been widely circulated that the Nationalists had bribed the Kuominchun to cease fighting.

PAID 5 MILLION?
This report said it was generally believed that Chiang Kai-shek, during his recent trip to Honan, had succeeded through Xun Hai-shan, governor of Shansi province, in bribing General Feng Yuli-shan, head of the Kuominchun, to withdraw his troops in return for 10,000,000 Mexican dollars ($5,000,000).

This dispatch also quoted another report that Chiang had paid the Kuominchun commander $8,500,000 for which Feng and Yen had agreed to cease hostilities.

With the cessation of fighting in central China the principal theatre of internal warfare now is Kwangtung province, where the disaffected "ironclad division," which recently withdrew from the Nationalist army, and a force of rebels from Kwangsi province are advancing toward Canton. Recent dispatches said negotiations for settlement of this trouble also were proceeding. Nanking advices last night, said, however, that Chiang planned to send more troops southward to oppose the rebels.

Reports from Manchuria invaded from both east and west by Russian troops as the result of the controversy over the Chinese Eastern railway were meager.

Congressman Posts $500 Bail For Dry Law Trial

Washington—(P)—Representative Edward Everett Denison of Illinois, recently indicated on a charge of illegal possession of liquor, appeared today before a clerk in the District of Columbia Supreme court and posted bail of $500.

John Layne, Denison's former secretary, who was jointly indicted with him, has not yet given bail. District Attorney Rover said today he was investigating a report that a mistake in identity has been made in indicting Layne.

Denison was indicted after the discovery of a trunk, which prohibition agents said contained liquor, at a railroad station here. He was addressed to Layne in care of Denison at the house office building.

Layne after the indictment denied he knew anything about the trunk of liquor and Denison asserted that the trunk had been sent in his care by mistake.

TWO FIREMEN BADLY HURT AT JANESVILLE

Three Gas Tanks Explode
Setting Fire to Home—
Owner Slightly Burned

Janesville—(P)—Two firemen were burned seriously as they fought flaming gas and showering embers after three gas tanks exploded today and set fire to the home of Miss Snow. Snow was burned about the face and hands but was not considered in a serious condition.

The injured firemen are Clem Commons and Howard Carney. They were burned badly about the head and body.

Three explosions added hazard to the firefighters' work. Shortly before noon, workmen sought to connect gas fuel drums to a stove in the basement of the Snow home. As the first drum was opened, an explosion shot flames through the house.

Firemen donned gas masks to enter the house. In quick succession after the firemen entered, two other drums crashed flaming gas through the building. Carney and Commons, cloaked in flames, were dragged from the building.

While their burns were reported serious, doctors said they were in no danger unless infection developed. Damage amounting to $500 was done to the house.

BIG PLANE CRASHES WITH THREE ABOARD

Bursts into Blaze and Sets
Two Houses Afire in Smashup

Roosevelt Field, N. Y.—(P)—A large four-motored Fokker monoplane, with at least three persons on board, crashed into a house at Carle Field, near here, this afternoon, and set fire to the plane and two adjoining houses.

Rescuers tried vainly to approach the burning plane and house. One man was known to be in the wreckage. Another, tentatively identified as S. M. Bogo, a department of commerce inspector, was found near a clump of bushes and taken to a hospital.

The plane was bound for Tererboro, N. J., when the accident took place.

Witnesses reported that just before the fatal crash fire was seen issuing from the right rear motor. The pilot evidently tried to straighten out his ship and make a safe landing but was unsuccessful. One of the occupants of the plane was said to have jumped, but was unable to adjust his parachute.

Fire departments from surrounding towns were summoned to combat the blazes.

NO WORK ON CRUISERS UNTIL AFTER PARLEY

Washington—(P)—Secretary Adams said today the keels of the three cruisers whose construction was suspended by order of President Hoover last summer, will in no event be laid until after the London armament conference in January.

Advised or reports that the navy was proceeding with construction of these ships despite the president's order and contrary to the understanding of the situation abroad, the secretary said Mr. Hoover was fully aware of every step that had been taken by the navy in regard to the cruisers.

Members of congress who guided the 13-cruiser building program through the house and senate have expressed the opinion that under the act, the laying of the keels could be held up on the very end of the current fiscal year, ending June 30 next. Further delay, they have said, would have to be authorized by congress.

FOUR STUDENTS KILLED AT RAILROAD CROSSING

Canton, N. Y.—(P)—Four young men, believed to be St. Lawrence university students en route home for the Thanksgiving holiday, were killed at the Gouverneur crossing near here today when their automobile was struck by a New York Central railroad train on the St. Lawrence division.

Three of the dead later were identified as: Nelson P. Lobdell of Victor, N. Y., junior at St. Lawrence; Raymond J. Beardslee of New Berlin, N. Y., and W. B. Anderson of Bridgeport, Conn. Lobdell was the son of the Rev. Nelson L. Lobdell, one time missionary in Japan.

COCKTAIL SATISFIES, DOESN'T INTOXICATE

Washington—(P)—Mrs. James M. Dorian, wife of the commissioner of prohibition, today made public the recipe for a cocktail, described as one "that satisfies and does not intoxicate," which she has introduced into Washington dry circles.

"Take a pound of seedless grapes," she said, "chop them very fine, and a quart of grape juice. Stir thoroughly and serve very cold."

"It is very simple," she added, "but really it is very good."

Mrs. Dorian introduced the non-intoxicating cocktail at a meeting of a W. C. T. U. chapter and after the guests had pronounced it excellent, she said she intended to include the recipe in a W. C. T. U. pamphlet shortly to be published under the title "A Book of Juices."

SEEK BURGLAR WHO LOOTED FRAT HOUSES

Beloit—(P)—Police today sought a burglar who yesterday forced Howard Stevens, living at the Phi Kappa Psi house, to the attic when Stevens caught the man rifling a dresser. The intruder escaped.

In addition to the burglary of the Phi Psi house, members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon reported their house yesterday, 2202 in the new suburbs, shortly after midnight, was looted and watches valued at $75.

YOUNG BANDIT TRIO NABBED BY OFFICERS

Youths Admit Burglaries and Attempted Robbery, Police Chief Reports

The plans of three embryo gangsters were nipped by Appleton police shortly after midnight last night just as they were starting out on what they had planned to make a "real gangster" trip to St. Louis.

The three young men are Joseph Boroffke, 19, route 3, Green Bay; Clyde Adams, 16, 217 S. Adams-st. Green Bay; and Lawrence Charneski, 16, 827 Cherry-st. Green Bay. Boroffke was released from the state reformatory at Green Bay only last Friday morning after serving two years on a charge of burglary. He was sentenced from Green Bay, Adams and Charneski have been in the custody of the Industrial School for Boys at Wausau, police reported.

Boroffke acted as the leader of the gang, which started its activities Monday night at Green Bay where they broke into a garage-warehouse on S. Broadway-st., Green Bay, and stole several boxes of cigars, according to Boroffke's story of Police Chief George T. Prim Wednesday morning.

Early last night the three set on a pedestrian at Green Bay and hit him several times with a large blackjack, which Boroffke carried, they told police. They were unable to knock him out and then scattered when the man turned on them. After this experience they went to De Pere where they stole a Chevrolet coupe and came on to Appleton. They planned to go to St. Louis, living by ridding stores and pedestrians on the way, they admitted.

KENOSHA GIRL'S MURDER STILL REMAINS MYSTERY

Kenosha—(P)—The slaying of Mary Krescowski, 19-year-old factory girl, remained today a baffling mystery. Her decomposed body was found in a ditch north of here on Aug. 21, nearly a month after she was last seen at a dance at Racine.

A coroner's jury, after an all-day hearing yesterday, uncovered no testimony that shed any light on the killing. While witnesses told of the girl appearing at the dance and as Herman Armit told of hearing an accused cry, "Help! They're killing me!" as an automobile passed his house that night, Mrs. Tony Krescowski, the girl's mother, said aloud at each mention of her daughter's name.

The body, shrouded in weeds, was discovered in a ditch by a surveyor. A reward of $100 has been offered by county authorities for conviction of her slayer.

TWELVE OKLAHOMA BANKS SHUT DOORS

Sudden Death of Man Interested in All Is Held Responsible

Oklahoma City, Okla.—(P)—C. Graves Shull, state bank commissioner, announced that 12 state banks failed to open their doors today. The closings were an immediate result of the unexpected death last night of H. A. McCauley, 55, of Sapulpa, who was interested in all 12.

Representatives of the state bank department were placed in charge at each institution.

The banks announced as closed were: Sapulpa State bank; the Bank of Mounds; Henryetta State bank; Bank of Commerce, Wewatch; State bank, Vian; Wilbur State bank; Wilbur Falls; Lawton State bank; Okfusco State bank; First State bank, Terrell; Avant State bank; Keystone State bank, and the Bank of Kellville.

McCauley, a former mayor of Sapulpa, died of apoplexy, it was said by his physician, Dr. P. K. Lewis.

C. J. Alexander, assistant state bank commissioner, who was in charge of the affairs of the Sapulpa State bank, said he understood McCauley was in Tulsa yesterday, attempting to arrange a loan to carry the Sapulpa bank over a crisis, but was unsuccessful.

Dr. Lewis was called to the McCauley home last night by Mrs. McCauley. She said her husband collapsed when he started to retire. He died less than an hour later without regaining consciousness.

H. L. Payne, cashier of the Sapulpa bank, said McCauley was chairman of the board of most of the 13 banks in which he was interested. The American State bank at Perum was the only one of the group which had not closed its doors this morning.

"We intended to throw them on the roads to puncture the tires of cars that might chase us," Dorcas willingly explained to Police Chief George T. Prim Wednesday morning.

In the meantime local police had been asked to watch for the car which had been stolen at De Pere, Captain P. J. Van-Lin and Officer Michael Lockery started patrolling the side streets and they encountered the three young gangsters as they were sitting in the stolen car when they had parked at the corner of College and Union-st.

On examination, after being taken into custody, the youths readily admitted their identity and told of their past activities. Boroffke said carried the blackjack which they had used earlier in the evening.

The three youths were to be turned over Wednesday morning to Sheriff William Michael of Brown County, and Police Chief Thomas Hawley of Green Bay.

WANTED MORE GUNS

When they arrived in Appleton about 12:30 this morning they decided they needed guns before continuing their trip, so they cruised College-ave until they found a store where guns were displayed in the window. Then they decided, Boroffke said, to wait until about 2 or 3 o'clock when they were going to throw a stone through the window and start weapons to be used in their future gangster activities.

While waiting for the proper time to break the window the boys became hungry and cruising about the side streets they came to Giebreich meat market, 1229 N. Morrison-st. They hurled a stone through the plate glass window and stole six jars of boneless pickled pigs feet which were eaten. The three then stole four empty milk bottles from the porch of a residence nearby.

Necklace Of Napoleon's Empress Brought To U.S.

New York—(P)—On the crest of a high value auction entered in the city of a valuable diamond necklace that has traveled through Egypt and America in brown paper, packed since the day it graced the throat of Napoleon's empress.

More than a hundred years ago Napoleon I gave the jewels to his young wife, Marie Louise, in his first year of the birth of their son, who he dreamed, would carry on the Napoleon's dynasty.

Since then it has graced the throats of an Austrian empress and empresses, has traveled the sands of Egypt and the highways of New York, has been the envy of customs officials and the wonder of bank clerks.

Today it is in the care of Mrs. Charles F. Townsend, who was born the Princess Darante, daughter of the Italian Prince Darante, and who is a friend of the archduchess of Austria, Marie Theres, its 74-year-old owner.

A little more than a year ago Mrs. Townsend, the wife of a retired English government official formerly serving in Egypt, carried the jewels to King Fuad of Egypt who considered buying them for his queen.

No armed escort, no armored cars accompanied the necklace that once was Marie Louise's most prized possession. Mrs. Townsend put them in a cardboard suitcase, took them on her arm and hurried to a second class train so that she might attract no attention on her way to the palace.

When she arrived the king and his court gazed in horror at what she had done. The necklace was duly reported, but the queen preferred a couple of pearls, so the diamonds were not purchased. Instead they returned to the archduchess.

Then Mrs. Townsend came to America and the jewels were sent to her addressed to a New York bank.

LEADERS ARE CHEERFUL

BULLETIN

Washington—(P)—In furtherance of President Hoover's general prosperity program, Acting Secretary of War Hurley today directed all corps area and department commanders to begin immediately the initiation of farm construction and repair work for which funds are available.

WASHINGTON—(P)—A construction and maintenance program of nearly $200,000,000 for the coming year was outlined today by President Hoover by spokesmen for the public utilities of the country.

This is an expansion of more than $100,000,000 over expenditures for the same purpose this year and the report on it was received with gratification by the president as a material contribution to his plan for continuing business progress in the face of the fall in stock market prices.

Among the utilities officials who met with the chief executive at the White House were Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric Co., and Samuel Insull of Chicago, one of the largest holders of public utilities interests in the country.

Matthew S. Sloan of New York, president of the National Electric Light association, summarized the utilities situation in a statement to the president. Insull explained, upon a survey of the electric light and power gas, and street railway industries, made yesterday at a conference in New York.

The president had asked for a report and the utilities leaders requested that they be permitted to come here to make the report, thus adding an unexpected conference to the many which have been held during the past ten days.

Separate reports for the main factors of the whole industry were made by Mr. Sloan for the Electric Light and Power corporations, E. J. Mulvaney for the American Gas association, and J. N. Shannahan of Omaha, for the electric railways.

OTHER FIGURES
Mr. Sloan placed 1929 expenditures for the electric light and power companies at $55,000,000 for expansion of facilities, an increase of $5,000,000 over corresponding expenditures for this year. This is exclusive of maintenance costs.

For the gas industry Mr. Mulvaney estimated construction expenditures at $425,000,000, a 6 per cent increase over this year's total, and maintenance of existing facilities at $200,000,000.

The report by Mr. Shannahan said the street railway companies were spending approximately $100,000,000 for maintenance, betterments and expansions, and expected to maintain or exceed this rate of expenditure during 1930.

Mr. Sloan said a careful consideration of existing conditions justified the early $100,000,000 outlay by the light and power companies in anticipation of the growing requirements of industry for power, and consumers generally for increased electric service.

"The customer contacts and day to day experience of the companies represented in the conference reflect no disturbing conditions or trends," said Mr. Mulvaney's report. "They suggest no reason at this time for curtailing the contemplated expenditures for the construction and extension of gas service facilities. On the contrary, it is considerable that gas service is needed by many communities for economic, market, academic construction especially on the natural gas side of the industry."

Thomas N. McCarran, head of the public service company of New Jersey, said after the session that it

BUSINESS MAN TELLS TALE OF KIDNAPING

Momence, Ill.—(P)—Back home today, Henry W. Conrad, prominent Momence business man, related how he was kidnapped last night and given freedom two hours later upon abandonment by the kidnapers of their stolen automobile near Cooksland.

The day's receipts already had been banked. After locking up the employees and searching the office, the kidnapers ordered Conrad into the car and sped westward.

In Down, Ill., the main force of the FBI met a car on the highway which they arrested, and were crossing to Cooksland in a general search.

The kidnapers then looked for Conrad. Near Cooksland, Illinois, they found the car and Conrad, and another car and Conrad, and northward, having Conrad in the car, they sped.

Extensive Liquor Syndicate Uncovered In Chicago

HINT RING IS LINKED WITH GANG MURDERS

Indictment Reveals Months of Work by Federal Dry Officers

Chicago—(AP)—Federal indictment of Paul Morton reveals today that the government finally had decided to snap the trap baited months ago for leaders of an elaborate and extensive liquor syndicate.

There were intimations, too, that in the indictment of Morton and 11 others the government had scraped close to the background of the Moran gang massacre of last Valentine's day and also had touched the web of law violation uncovered in the recent northern Indiana liquor investigations.

The indictment of Morton, brother of the late "Nails" Morton, who was one of the few Chicago gangsters to die a natural death, was returned several weeks ago, but was kept secret, with the others, until yesterday. The name arising from disclosure of public work by government dry agents under Alexander G. Jamies, chief deputy of a special prohibition unit. For months, two of Jamies' undercover agents accompanied truckloads after truckloads of Canadian ale into the Chicago area, driving the trucks off times and always accepted as members of the alleged syndicate.

This detective work was capped last August, 22, in the raid led by George "Hank" Haggerty, dry agent, in the City Hall square building. The offices of the Morton Construction company, said by government agents to be a guise for Morton's Chicago business headquarters, were stormed and Merle Adams, an insurance broker, was shot and slugged by two of Haggerty's raiders.

CONTINUE RAIDS IN IDAHO CLEANUP

Total of 17 Persons Indicted Up to Present in U. S. Campaign

Wallace, Idaho—(AP)—The liquor cleanup of northern Idaho, where federal officials claim municipal officers have made their own laws in a huge rum ring conspiracy, reached new heights today as raids continued after arrest of 17 persons in Wallace yesterday, including four city officials.

Mayor Herman J. Rossi, Sheriff R. E. Weniger of Shoshone, former Mayor W. H. Herneck, Deputy Sheriffs Charles Bloom and Albert Chapman and 12 other persons were charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws.

The federal grand jury was reported to have returned more than 70 indictments against officials and business men of the silver mining district. More than 50 persons already have been arrested.

Two weeks ago Sheriff Weniger and Deputy Bloom were arrested on indictments charging conspiracy at Mullan, where Mayor Arthur Harwood, Chief of Police Arthur Welch and several city councilmen and former councilmen also were arrested.

CALL FOREST FIGHTERS TO RESUME STRUGGLE

Grants Pass, Ore.—(AP)—All available men attached to the forest department in this district, most of whom were released two weeks ago, probably will be called back into service today to combat live incendiary fires which were reported to have been started in the Sequoia National forest last night.

The fire situation in the Sequoia forest was said to be worse than at any time previously this season. Incendiary fires were reported by rangers still at their stations in the forest and word that incendiary fires had been added to the list of hazards came at a time when officials of the United States Forest service have believed the situation much improved.

Sacramento, Calif.—(AP)—Approximately $88,000,000 will be spent on state and county roads in California during 1930, Dept. B. Mack, director of the state department of public works, estimated today.

PROPOSE PLAN OF STOCK TRADING IN FUTURE CONTRACTS

Chicago Livestock Exchange Members Asked to Consider Proposition

BY OWEN L. SCOTT Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press

Chicago—Speculative trade in livestock on the hoof—under a plan of future contracts—similar to those used in other commodity markets—now is being proposed before the Chicago Livestock exchange.

A rule just passed for consideration by the 479 commission men making up the membership of this central market, would set up a machinery for dealing in hog futures, in carload lots. If approved, and successful, then the method of trade would be extended to other classes of livestock and the public would have one more speculative market in which to gamble if so inclined.

The object would be to attain through speculation, some sort of control to soften the effect of violent price moves, as in other trading markets, facility would be provided for hedging, which acts as an insurance against price changes for the non-speculative buyer.

But this time there may be new obstacles to establishment of such an exchange. While there long has been a feeling among livestock traders that some such speculative market is needed, the present move comes when the federal farm board is seeking to raise the same object through cooperative marketing. It already has set in motion plans for uniting the various livestock marketing cooperatives which last year handled $389,000,000 worth of cattle, hogs and sheep. This is about 15 per cent of the value of all livestock marketings.

Like-wise, the packing companies might not look with any special favor on the proposition.

QUESTION PRACTICABILITY

It seems to question the practicability of future trading in live animals not only because of the difficulty of grading, but because of the difficulty in obtaining delivery under future contracts. As in other commodity future markets, traders would buy and sell contracts for future delivery—only this time, instead of buying or selling contracts involving grain or produce, the contracts would be for live animals still on the farm or in feed lots.

A speculatively inclined city man could buy himself ten carloads of a certain grade of hogs and then seek to sell them later at a profit. Should he fail that, as in other commodities, he could take delivery and seek storage space and start feeding—a factor not involved in other commodities. In addition, this new form of dealing would require new grading machinery, possibly with government control.

However, these factors are described by sponsors of the proposal as trivial when contrasted with the benefits which they expect would accrue.

In any event, some of the edge might be taken from the present picture method of direct bargaining which now goes on at the yards. Here one tough remains of the old west, as traders haggle over price and do their buying and selling with the animals before them. Now the drop in a whip seals the deal as the horsemen ride the silos seeking buys.

The tendency of future markets is to take the stress off of cash trading. Chicago might lose one of its special sight seeing attractions. Voting on the new proposal might not take place for several weeks.

LARGE CROWD SEES, ENJOYS ELKS PLAY

"She Loved an Elk" Presented by Excellent Amateur Cast

A crowd which comfortably filled the lower floor of Lawrence Memorial chapel and overflowed into the balconies enjoyed the second presentation of "She Loved an Elk" last night. The profits from the production will be used for the lodge's charities.

The play, which has an interesting plot, was well presented. The chorus and the principals were in excellent voices and the entire production went off with scarcely a hitch.

The audience was particularly appreciative of George J. May who was cast in the difficult role of Hamilton Traverser, an actor with the impulse to act on every occasion.

NATIVE'S TALE BRINGS NEW HOPE FOR EISELSON

Nome, Alaska—(AP)—New hope rose today for the safety of Carl Ben Eielson and his mechanic, Earl Borland, missing since they took off Nov. 9 from Teller, Alaska, on an attempted flight to the ice-locked ship Nanuk, as the result of a report by a native dog team driver that he had seen smoke in an isolated spot near North Cape, Siberia.

The Nanuk, ice-bound with the Soviet ship Stavropol at North Cape, Eielson was attempting a rescue flight when he disappeared. Searchers have acted on the theory that he might have been forced down on the Siberian coast by gales which swept the snow-covered region.

The native said the smoke he spotted was about 20 miles from the Nanuk. Eielson carried a small stove and a large quantity of gasoline, with which it is believed he may have sent up a smoke signal.

Hope was further increased by the fact that this last report coincided with another by a Russian trapper, who said he heard the drone of a plane motor in the same region on the day Eielson and Borland dropped from sight. Fog hid the plane from his view.

SELECTIVE SERVICE LAW IS FAVORED BY U. S. CHIEF OF STAFF

No Way to Get Replacements Without It, General Summerall Says

Washington—(AP)—A selective service law to operate in war time, was described today in the annual report of General C. P. Summerall, chief of staff, as the one method of procuring new units "for the far from complete" infantry division of the army.

In other respects the report reflected a generally satisfactory condition throughout the army.

Regarding the infantry, General Summerall said that "even in our first line troops, our basic units are far from complete and much time must elapse before divisions are ready for combat, even if necessity did not require the utilization of their personnel for training new troops."

"There is no way," he declared, "to get without the enactment of a selective service law. Months would be required for such a law to be enacted and to become effective."

Outlining the mission of the army in war as one "to utilize speedily and effectively the national resources to the extent authorized by congress," General Summerall outlined a survey made with the responsibility in mind "that our military forces must always be in such state of preparedness that the army, without delay, take the initiative for the protection of our country in the event of an emergency."

The state training of the regular army was described as "generally satisfactory" with the system of decentralization "justified." Increased ration allowances, it was added, "greatly improved the morale of troops."

QUIET THANKSGIVING DAY AT WHITE HOUSE

Two Sons of Hoovers Will Not Be Present at Festivities

Washington—(AP)—Thanksgiving will be observed at the White House tomorrow in a quiet, old-fashioned way.

In the morning President and Mrs. Hoover will attend church services and then will spend the remainder of the day with a few friends.

When evening rolls around, the handsome mahogany table in the state dining room will be filled with both domesticated and wild turkeys along with "the trimmings" found on the best of most American homes.

Mr. Hoover will have no business engagements, and along with all government departments, his executive office will be closed.

The two sons of the president will not be with their parents so that note of the family atmosphere will be missing. They are coming for the Christmas holidays when there will be a Christmas tree and toys for the children of Herbert Hoover, Jr.

Six turkeys already have arrived at the White House. So far as the president is concerned, he is looking forward with particular pleasure to the wild gobbler sent by William M. Moody, postmaster of Washington.

Two large domesticated turkeys were sent from northern Minnesota, and one each from North Dakota, Iowa and California.

There is likely to be some curtailment of entertaining tomorrow because the White House is in mourning for the late Secretary Good. The well known hospitality of the Hoovers, however, is expected to extend at least to their circle of intimate friends.

SCOUT CEREMONY WILL BE BROUGHT HERE AGAIN

The golden arch ceremony, with which boys are initiated into the boy scouts, will be brought back to Appleton in January, it was decided by valley council directors. ## TAKE SLAIN PASTOR'S BODY FROM HOUSE TO HOUSE--2 MEN HELD

Wagoner, Okla.—(AP)—Two men are under arrest here in connection with an attempt by two "hard boiled" men of the Hells Bend district of Wagoner-co to terrorize an entire community by carrying from door to door the body of an aged Cherokee preacher who had died.

Residents of the district, although plainly under the influence of the fear the two community bullies intended to inspire, told officers they were summoned to their doors Sunday to be shown the body of Jack Batt, Cherokee preacher, and told that "everybody had better mind his own business."

Batt had died against the two men a charge of attack on his daughter, but withdrew it before his death.

W. W. Hadley, father of David Hadley, who was sought for questioning in connection with the killing, was arrested last night. The aged preacher's body was found at the Elder Hadley's home Sunday night.

Bud Conley, said to have been Hadley's companion on the trip of terrorization, was arrested yesterday morning and charged with the murder.

MAY OPEN GRAVE TO FIND SLAIN MAN

Believe Murder Victim Buried Above Coffin of Another in Cemetery

Seattle—(AP)—An unmarked grave in an isolated cemetery near Malibu, Wash., today became the focal point in the search for the body of James Eugene Bisset, Annapolis, Md., a man who disappeared here in September, 1928.

The grave is within the area which Prosecutor Ewing D. Colvin declared was revealed to him as the burial place by Decato Earl Mayer, a suspect in the case, while Mayer was being subjected to tests with a "lie detector" machine. Mayer, who was convicted of the theft of Bisset's automobile and subsequently sentenced to life imprisonment as an habitual criminal, obtained an injunction restraining Colvin from further use of the machine.

Colvin said he was led to investigate the cemetery by information supplied by three persons whose identity he was not at liberty to divulge. They told him, he said, that they had seen a "man answering Mayer's description" walking about the cemetery about the time Bisset disappeared.

An iron probe, Colvin said, struck a board or box at a depth of about two feet. This section, James Turner, told the prosecutor that he had dug the grave in question five feet deep, while the casket box was only 22 inches long.

The grave was believed to be that of a man known only as Dillon, who was killed in an automobile about 18 months ago. Efforts were being made to locate his relatives to obtain their consent to open the grave, to ascertain if it contained more than one body, Colvin said.

SAY TREATMENT WAS HELP TO M'CORMICK

Santa Barbara, Calif.—(AP)—Further expert testimony relating to the mental and physical condition of Stanley McCormick was ready for presentation here today at the trial of a suit seeking removal of the incompetent multi-millionaire's present guardians.

Light physicians yesterday gave varying technical testimony on direct examination seeking to show that McCormick's condition in recent months has improved. Mrs. Katherine McCormick, wife of the wealthy inventor, contends that medical treatment provided by her, old F. McCormick and Mrs. Anita McCormick Blaine, brother and sister of Stanley, is ineffectual in combating the patient's mental trouble.

She is seeking to oust the brother and sister as co-guardians of her husband and to establish herself as sole guardian and custodian of his $20,000,000 estate.

Under cross-examination by Newton D. Baker, chief counsel for Mrs. McCormick, several witnesses admitted that Stanley's mental reaction was subject to "ups and downs" and that physically he appeared to be enjoying the normal health of the average man of 50. McCormick, who is 54, has been consistently referred to by defense counsel as an invalid.

SELLS TAINTED HORSE MEAT TO CHILI MAKER

St. Joseph, Mo.—(AP)—Horse meat may be a proper ingredient of chili con carne—but the law demands it at least be untainted.

F. J. Dehmer, proprietor of a Manhattan, Kas., slaughter house, was fined $395 yesterday by a jury which decided he was guilty of selling tainted horse meat to a St. Joseph manufacturer.

Dehmer denied the charge, but admitted he carried the meat in stock as a dog food. The chili company has since gone out of business.

Bodies Of 75 War Dead Nearing American Shore

New York—(AP)—After lying for ten years in lonely Siberian graves, the bodies of 75 American war dead were approaching their homeland today to receive the honors of their country. The steamship President Roosevelt, of the United States lines, bringing the bodies from France on the last trip of their journey is scheduled to arrive at its Hoboken pier either tomorrow night or early Friday. The ship has been delayed by gales.

The Americans had been sent to the Archangel front as part of an allied force to prevent the Germans from seizing the north Russian ports for submarine bases after the Russian revolution. They were members of the 329th Infantry, 316th Engineers, 337th Ambulance company, and 337 field hospital.

Some of the men were killed in action, others died of wounds, disease and exposure. In 1919, 102 bodies were returned to this country. The others have lain in scattered graves along the Trans-Siberian railroad until recently when they were located and removed through the efforts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Eleven more bodies are now in of the United States lines, bringing the bodies from France on the last trip of their journey is scheduled to arrive at its Hoboken pier either tomorrow night or early Friday. The ship has been delayed by gales.

Full military honors have been arranged by the army and navy for the reception of the dead. The President Roosevelt will be met off Ambrose by the United States destroyer, Kane and escorted up the bay. Should the ship arrive before sunset, military plans will circle overhead. A national salute of 21 guns will be fired from Governor's Island.

At the Hoboken pier a room has been especially prepared where the bodies will lie in state under a military guard of honor. Military funeral services will be held at 11 o'clock a. m. Friday, with chaplains of the Veterans of Foreign Wars officiating.

On Saturday morning, 55 of the bodies and of them unidentified, will be put aboard a special train for Detroit, which furnished most of the men for the 329th Infantry. Other bodies will be sent to Washington, Chicago, New Richmond, Wis., and other points in the mid-west.

At Detroit the highest military honors will be paid. Upon arrival of the special train at the Union station there at 10 o'clock a. m. Sunday, the bodies of the Detroit dead will be escorted to the city hall by a detachment of regular army troops and the Michigan National Guard and the entire membership of the Polish Bear association. All local veteran organizations will take part in the ceremonies. The bodies will be in state for several days at White Chapel and then be entombed until next Memorial day when they will be buried.

SHAUGHNESSY UNABLE TO COME HERE DEC. 5

Judge George Shaughnessy of Milwaukee will be unable to speak here at a forum meeting of the chamber of commerce Dec. 5, and the meeting has been postponed, according to Kenneth Corbett, chamber secretary. A date for the meeting will be set as soon as definite word is received from Judge Shaughnessy as to when he can come.

THRILLS PROMISED WHEN "WAR DEVIL" TALKS IN APPLETON

"Friendly Enemy" Sank 500,000 Tons Without Taking a Single Life

Young boys as well as grown ups will find thrilling adventure in the talk of Count Felix von Luckner, who will appear at Lawrence Memorial chapel Dec. 14, under auspices of the Appleton Women's club, according to reports from other cities where this German "friendly enemy" of the World war has spoken.

Harwood Shattuck, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shattuck, wrote an enthusiastic letter to his parents after hearing this "Sea Devil" speak. Harwood is attending the Choate School for Boys in Connecticut. His letter follows:

"Dear Mother and Daddy: This is my weekly letter and I haven't much to say except that I heard Count von Luckner give a speech last night and 'wow' what a talk it was. I was never so interested in all my life. With heaps of love, Jimmy."

A Chicago enthusiast who heard the count a few months ago said of this man who sank 500,000 tons of Allied shipping during the war without taking a single life:

"After all, he's the first honest-to-Gosh pirate in the last hundred years. There's an inherent admiration in all of us for tales of adventure and when the yarn comes from the lips of the man who lived these stories of modern buccannery, we've just got to sit up and take notice. Luckner is great—simply great."

HE'S HUMANITARIAN

"Luckner's greatness is not altogether because of his colorful career as a modern swashbuckler. Rather it is because of the fine humanitarian ideals lived up to at all times. He sank 13 vessels, took hundreds of prisoners, yet he never killed nor injured anyone in the slightest degree."

Mayor Rolfe of San Francisco lost three boats during the war—sunk by Count Luckner. "Mr. Mayor Rolfe was the first to greet him at that city and was instrumental in having him made an honorary citizen."

"I lost three of my best boats during the war, through the 'Sea Devil,' and I suppose I should feel bitter toward him," said Mr. Rolfe.

"However, my captains never got over the fine treatment they and their men received at Count Luckner's hands. There's a real man for you—and I am proud to number myself among his friends."

Because of the humanitarian motives of this sea raider he has emerged from the world conflict as one of its best known and most beloved heroes. Vague strange stories were spread around this modern Captain Kidd during the last years of the war. He became a romantic buccannier, a fabled hero of the South Seas and many stories were told of his dashing boldness and also his great kindness of heart. With the close of the war came the facts and the truth is stranger and more thrilling than the sea stories of old.

On his arrival in New York for his speaking tour, he was greeted by three captains whose vessels he sank and who came to thank him personally for his treatment of themselves and their commands at the time they were "compulsory guests" of Count Luckner under the fortunes of the war.

NEW STATE LAW ON CHATTEL MORTGAGES IS DECLARED LEGAL

Register of Deeds Announces That New Regulations Go into Effect Jan. 1

The new chattel mortgage and conditional sales contract law, which provides for filing these documents with the register of deeds instead of the town, city or village clerk, has been declared legal and will go into effect Jan. 1, according to word received this week by A. G. Koch, county register of deeds.

Under the old law all such papers were filed with the clerk of the town, city or village in which the mortgagee resided. If any citizen desired to get information on the matter it was necessary for him to get in touch with the town, city or village clerk who kept the records. Under the new plan all records will be kept by the register of deeds. Clerks must turn their records over to the register of deeds on or before Jan. 1.

A total of 513,398 documents affected by this new law were filed with registers of deeds in the state last year, according to a report received by Mr. Koch from the state register of deeds association. The report shows 5,996 papers were filed in Outagamie-co. The number of papers filed by other counties in this vicinity were as follows: Brown, 6,339; Calumet, 1,550; Fond du Lac, 2,091; Manitowish, 5,444; Marinette, 2,658; Oneida, 2,253; Shawano, 2,537; Sheboygan, 1,597; Waupaca, 3,284; Winnebago, 8,900.

Talks To Parents

FIRST TOYS By Alice Judson Peale

As soon as the baby begins even vaguely to reach and fumble, it is time for him to have toys to play with.

The baby's first toys should be varied, safe and interesting. Toys which may be washed and boiled are best. He should have nothing to play with so small that it is possible for him to get it into his mouth and choke on it.

The baby's first toys should be such as will provide him with new sensations of vision and touch and hearing. A good toy is one with which the baby can do many things. The feel of his toys is very important. Since the young baby is not sensitive to color, the brightly colored beads and rattles which we buy appeal to him by virtue of their texture and shape, by the noises which they emit and by the feeling of power which he derives from handling them.

First toys for baby include not only the beautiful beads, animals, celluloid rattles and floating bath toys that are on sale in the stores, but also many home-made playthings, which are just as attractive to the child as those which we buy.

These home-made playthings include such objects as empty spool buttons, strung securely on a stout

DRIVE STARTED TO CLEAN COUNTY OF ILLITERACY CASES

Meeting Proposes to Teach Every Person to Read and Write

A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, instituted a drive this week in an effort to wipe out illiteracy in the territory under his jurisdiction.

The drive was started by Mr. Meating after he had received a report from the state which shows there are 30,000 illiterates in the state, and 700 of them are in Outagamie-co.

An illiterate is said by the state to be a person "of normal mind, ten or more years old, who cannot write his own name nor read in any language."

Mr. Meating plans, through surveys by the teachers of the rural schools, to locate the illiterate persons in the county and devise some means of trying to teach them at least the rudiments of reading and writing.

The teachers are asked to discuss the matter with their school board, draw a map of their district and then try to locate as many illiterates as possible. The teachers are asked to report within ten days.

The figures I have received are a surprise to the state," Mr. Meating said. "We have allowed people to settle in our state and we have not done our duty. They cannot be the best citizens because we have not taught them to get information for themselves."

strings; stiff sheets of paper which crumple and rattle delightfully; a light metal cup and spoon; clothespins, and rattles made of metal salt shakers with screwed on tops and with pebbles or rice inside.

The baby should not have many toys all at once. A few carefully selected for variety of experience are better than many constantly available.

The baby who has only a few toys at a time tends to explore thoroughly the possibility of each plaything. The child who has many tends to learn less from each one and is likely to become bored.

CITY'S SHARE OF COUNTY TAX IS $421,607

Figures Show Appleton Will Pay $120,000 More Than Last Year

Appleton's share of the county taxes in 1930 will be about $120,000 more than this year, according to figures tabulated Tuesday by John L. Hamstead, county clerk. Mr. Hamstead's report shows Appleton's share of the tax next year will be $421,607 as against $301,607 this year.

The equalized value of the city was raised slightly more than 1 per cent from $4,751,129 to $4,801,129. This means that Appleton pays 4.75 per cent of all county taxes.

While Appleton has the largest increase in county taxes this year, the report from the county clerk shows that the city of Kaukauna's share of the county taxes has been almost doubled, from $55,000 to $100,000. However, this large increase is due in part to a special charge of $45,000 which the city must pay as its share of the cost of the new lawns, bridge in that city. The county pays $19,000 toward this new bridge and $45,000 of this amount is payable to Kaukauna.

Following is a table showing the amount of county taxes paid in 1929 and the amount to be paid in 1930, by each town, city and village:

MORTGAGE BONDS PLAY BIG ROLE IN MONEY STRUCTURE

Adversity in Company Proves Worth of These Investments Over Others

New York—The importance of the position of a mortgage bond in the financial structure is illustrated in the case of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul now the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific. In the preceding article in this series it was pointed out that the market makes a distinction in favor of a bond secured by first lien even in the case of such exceptionally prosperous railroads as the Atchafalaya and the New York Central.

At present it is of no practical importance to the investor in the obligations of either of these two roads just what mortgage security he has as far as the certainty of receiving interest and principal is concerned. Many years ago it was that way with the St. Paul, the old company, but when the conditions brought adversity and finally in 1925 the company went into the hands of a receiver. It was then that the significance of mortgage security to the bondholders became evident.

All through the receivership interest was paid regularly on the general mortgage bonds of which there were three series outstanding. These bonds were secured by a direct lien on over 6,000 miles of road and they were undisturbed in the reorganization which brought into existence the present company. It has been said that the history of American railroads shows no large system which defaulted on its first mortgage bonds no matter what happened to the junior liens but however that may be the St. Paul instance illustrates the point.

A first claim on assets is worth paying for. It is the same with the bonds of a public utility or of any other industrial. There may never come a time when the bondholder has to invoke the mortgage clause but its existence always has a value. It is true also of junior bonds that they receive favorable treatment in reorganization in direct proportion to their mortgage security.

RECORDS INDICATE OUTAGAMIE-CO HAS 247 NOTARY PUBLICS

Approximately 60 New Notaries Are Appointed in County Each Year

Outagamie-co has 247 of the 249 notary publics in the state, according to a report from Sydney M. Shannon, clerk of courts. Records at the office of Theodore Dammann, secretary of state show there are 29,677 notaries in the state.

Records indicate that new appointments as notaries are being made in Outagamie-co approximately at the rate of 60 each year. About 240 new appointments are made throughout the state each year.

Mr. Shannon's records show that of the 247 notary publics now listed in his records, 55 were appointed this year; 52 were appointed in 1928; 28 in 1927; and 53 in the 1926. This means that the commissions of 53 of the notaries will expire this year and they will either be reappointed or allow their commissions to expire without making application for reappointment.

The secretary of state points out that the office of notary has become so important that the governor has been given the power of removal over all notaries. The state employs a full time clerk to take care of the commissioning of notaries. The law requires that notaries' bonds be held for 10 years.

IS NECESSARY OFFICER

The notary is recognized as a necessary official in nearly all civilized countries. Lawyers recognize him and his official acts are received as evidence, not only in his own, but in all countries, according to Mr. Shannon.

"His duties are of great variety and importance, consisting for the most part in protesting inland and foreign bills of exchange, promissory notes, authenticating their dishonor by the refusal of the drawee to accept or pay them on presentation or when due," Mr. Shannon said. "The notaries also authenticate transfers of property, and administer the oath as to the correctness of accounts or statements of important business documents, which are often necessary for the transmission to points where the parties are not able to appear in person. The notary takes depositions for actions pending in foreign or distant courts."

"In all such cases the notary's certificate when accompanied by his official seal of office and the proper certificates of his official character, if the act is to be used beyond his own county or state, is received as prima facie evidence.

"Most people if they give the matter any thought at all are inclined to believe that the office of notary public is of no consequence. This is brought about by the fact that there are so many of them scattered about the country. The office is of much greater importance than is generally supposed. Grave complications are likely to arise from a notary's mis-

13 COLONIES OF BEES DESTROYED IN COUNTY

Thirty-one colonies of bees, infected with American foul brood, were destroyed in Outagamie-co last year by deputy apirary inspectors working under the state department of agriculture, according to a report received by the county board from L. L. Chambers, state entomologist. George Jacobson and Ivan Weirum were the two inspectors. They made 104 inspections and found nine apiaries and 16 colonies of bees infected. The hives were either scorching or burned entirely. Forty-three keepers were found to be keeping their broods in immovable hives contrary to the law. They will make the changes this year. A total of 1,214 colonies were inspected. Expenditures for the year totaled $246.51, of which $112.47 was paid by the state and $134.03 by the county.

For a SORE throat

A sore throat may be eased by gargling just once with quarter of a glass of water in which you have dissolved two tablets of Bayer Aspirin. You may have to repeat the treatment for a deep-seated inflammation like tonsillitis, but Bayer Aspirin is the one thing that reduces the infection.

Don't forget this most sensible of all treatments for sore throat. The one the nurses all know; the one which all doctors concede to be effective. And remember its quick relief of neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, lumbago and the like. Use it to break-up any cold, or to dispel a headache. It does not depress the heart. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer manufacture of monoacetic acid ester of salicylic acid.

ELIMINATE GRADE CROSSINGS

Assemblyman Wallace Ingalls of Racine announces that the groundwork for a comprehensive, statewide program for elimination of highway grade crossings is being laid this fall, with a view to having a definite plan ready for the next legislature. It is an important and commendable undertaking. During the last five years statistics show, according to Mr. Ingalls, that more than 200 persons have been killed at grade crossings annually, or a total of more than 1000 deaths for that period. In addition there have been several thousands injured, crippled or maimed and the property damage has run into millions of dollars.

Mr. Ingalls is probably right when he says that the only way to obtain action on the grade crossing problem is to make it a political issue. It is wholly improbable that the railroads will act on their own initiative, and it is unlikely that anything can be accomplished by negotiations between the state and the railroads.

Notwithstanding the fact that in a great majority of cases persons killed or injured at grade crossings are primarily if not entirely at fault, this does not lessen the necessity of definite action to remove the peril and protect the hundreds of persons who are hit by trains each year against their own folly. New York state had to make grade crossing elimination a political question. Wisconsin has nearly 9000 grade crossings and 7840 of them, according to the Racine legislator, are unprotected except by signs.

The progress that is being made toward eliminating these unprotected crossings; either by the use of gates or flagmen, is so slow that it practically amounts to nothing. It is the duty of the state of Wisconsin to see that adequate measures are taken to safeguard human life at railway crossings. It has full power to act and its responsibilities are direct and complete. We do not attempt to say how the elimination of grade crossings is to be financed, but it ought to be possible to determine this question with fairness to all interests concerned. In some cases a physical removal of the grade crossing is required and this necessitates costly construction which ought to be apportioned between the railroads and the public. However, in practically all instances it will be done with gates or flagmen. In many European countries all grade crossings have been protected, generally with gates. If they can do it there we can do it here. It is a part of the legitimate expenditures for the operation of railroads. It should be done gradually, but constantly and progressively.

The time has come when this fact must be recognized. Density of population and the almost incredible number of automobiles on the highways have made the problem acute in recent years. Mr. Ingalls is to be commended for inaugurating a campaign to eliminate grade crossings in Wisconsin. It will have to come, and the sooner a start is made the better. It is a reform the railroads cannot possibly avoid and when it is brought about it will be profitable all around.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—Those helpful telegraph companies! First, one of them came to the aid of the articulate by compiling sets of suitable sentiments for any occasion, from Easter greetings to football pep messages.

No longer need the ordinary brain labor over such thoughts as, "May your Christmas be merry and your New Year happy." There it is, in a little folder, appropriately expressed in 10 words.

Now, not to be outdone by its rival in public service, another company has loaned a half dozen of its uniformed messengers to test shoes for a New York department store.

Each of the boys has been equipped with a pair of new shoes and a redometer. At the end of each month the wear and tear on the footgear will be checked against the mileage. At the end of six months, the store, presumably, will discard all but the brand that wears the longest.

But this stunt lacks one important thing from the telegraph company's standpoint—the suggestion of sending a message. The same company, therefore, has another idea it is trying to sell to theater managers. Its plan is to distribute among audiences message forms reading like this: "Saw 'Hot Feet' tonight. It's a wow. Don't miss it." The audience would be expected to send it out to friends, paying half the cost of a local message, 10 cents. The producer would pay the other dime, or maybe the whole 20 cents.

HELLENIC AMERICAN

In one of these stiff-front, Park avenue restaurants, where the waiters wear gold braid, a former Grecian newspaper cartoonist was a publisher's recent guest of honor. It was, in a way, a climax to an immigrant's success story.

As illustrator of books, designer of modernistic furniture and advertising artist, John Vassos has become one of the town's foremost pictorial interpreters of contemporary American civilization. Yet his acquaintance with America dates back only 11 years.

It was just before the war that Vassos was ordered out of Constantinople. As cartoonist of a Greek paper there, he had pictured the Turkish senate worshipping the Greek god of silence and thereby incurred the displeasure of the Moslems.

The war came and Vassos enlisted in the British navy, serving first in the Dardanelles, then on transport ships. Near the close of the war he came to America, just in time to paint a Victory loan poster for the city of Newport News, Va. Remaining here, he became a citizen.

BORTSCH AND GALALAIKAS

Vassos' story indicates that not all Greeks start restaurants once they land here.

The current vogue, in fact, is Russian restaurants. Several new ones have opened since last season, one of them providing itself a novelty by having no titled refugees as waiters.

The sandwich shops along Broadway, incidentally, have replaced their men servers with girls and have taken down their signs which proclaimed tipping to be un-American. Apparently they found New York, in that respect, un-American, too. At any rate, the girls are pocketing the dimes denied their predecessors.

Adventures In The Library

By Arnold Malder

WHAT THEY ARE PROUD OF

John Drinkwater's publishers have been broadcasting a literary note that runs like this: "At a recent lecture by John Drinkwater, a member of the audience asked him: 'Do you consider your new biography, 'Charles James Fox,' your greatest achievement?' Drinkwater's answer was: 'No, when I was thirteen years old I entered a record for my class at the Oxford high school in the long jump, 15 feet eight inches, which has never been beaten.'"

Only a literary note sent out for advertising purposes. The chances are at least even that John Drinkwater never said it; as likely as not the whole thing was manufactured by the publishers' clever advertising man. It would be of no interest if it was not representative of a large number of such pronouncements. The famous author is asked if he isn't pleased with his latest book. Oh, no, that isn't what he is proud of. When he was a small boy he made a whistle out of a poplar twig that had all the other whistles of all the other boys of the school looking like the work of amateurs. That's what he is proud of, not of the immortal poem he has written, or the drama that charmed millions, or the novel that was chosen the book of the month, or the biography that brought him a decoration. All that's of no importance compared with that willow whistle.

Or perhaps it runs like this: "No, my two-volume history that all the critics rave over does not make me proud and happy, not a bit of it. Do you want to know what I am proud of? I'll tell you. Back of my house I have a garden and last year I raised a squash there that won first premium at the county fair and again at the state fair. That I consider my greatest achievement, not that two volume history that has won the Pulitzer prize."

Or perhaps it is the author's expertness as a billiard player, or as a golf amateur, or even as a bridge player. Anything and everything except the thing that the world prizes him for. Toward his art his tone is deprecating. Oh, yes, it is achievement after a fashion, but not really the achievement that he is proud of, that thrills him and that gives him the warm glow of satisfaction. For that the reader must look in other fields, and the more modest the better. The author knows that the more lowly the subject matter of his ruling passion, the more his admirers will exclaim and consider him a genius.

It is all obviously an inverted method of self-praise and it may be taken for granted that in one hundred cases out of one hundred it is one hundred per cent humbug. The author may be unconscious; occasionally he may be conscious even on himself and may honestly think that his real interest is in some side issue, in some achievement that many others might have attained if they had given their attention to it, but it is humbug for all that and not to be taken seriously.

What is a man a writer for? I am not speaking of the mere literary carpenter who has nothing sense to say and then proceeds to stick it with that surface brilliancy that lands them in the popular magazines and that gets them the cash. I am referring to genuine writers, like John Drinkwater, who show by the things they write that the passion of their hearts is in their poems and novels and dramas. Why do they pour out their hearts' blood in genuine literature? Partly for the cash rewards in common with the mere literary tricksters, but principally because that is the ruling passion of their lives. They would rather do that than anything else. It means life to them and it gives meaning to life.

When they say that another irrelevant interest or occupation is the real thing with them they are talking nonsense.

The new may become overcrowded and the patrons drift back to their first love to escape the selfsame inconvenience which led them away. Hollywood oft-times recall that 19 years ago a certain hotel along in its grandeur, was the social hub of the colony, with its Thursday evening dances and the like. Today, with its broad porches and lawns, it resembles an old folks' home. Grandeur places have ennobled on her glory and it stands rejected, like a forgotten star shimmering on her days of fame and bewildered at the rush of "new faces" which have pushed her into the backwaters of oblivion.

INDUSTRY FOR WISCONSIN

Gov. Kohler believes that the imperative need of Wisconsin's prosperity is greater industrial development. We think he is 100 per cent correct. Wisconsin could stand very large expansion in manufacturing. This expansion should have taken place during the last 10 or 20 years. True, the state has made progress in this direction, but not as much as could be desired.

Wisconsin is in just as favorable a position for industrial development as other states which have surpassed it. Enlarged manufacturing will do three things: It will provide more and better employment opportunities. It will increase the market for Wisconsin farm produce and raw materials, and it will relatively lighten taxes through increased taxable resources.

Two thoughts in this connection from an address delivered by Gov. Kohler at Milwaukee are worthy of repetition:

To the casual observer riding through the countryside and noticing the farm buildings and improvements it is obvious that those farm areas which are in the neighborhood of active industrial centers enjoy a tremendous advantage.

Those areas in Wisconsin where tax delinquency is a serious problem are all far removed from the principal industrial centers. In the neighborhood of important industrial areas tax delinquency on farm property is comparatively negligible.

Everyone knows that this is an accurate statement of fact. The best markets for farm produce are large cities, particularly industrial cities. The nearer the farmer is to these markets the greater advantage he has of disposing of his produce and the better price he commands. Wisconsin manufacturing establishments bring into the state money from all parts of the country and even foreign countries and disburse a great deal of it for materials produced here at home, as well as for employees, taxpayers and consumers. Farm products are mostly for food so that the number of consumers bears a direct relationship to demand for them. Industrial growth rapidly increases food consumption. Investments in large manufacturing plants and their successful operation yield heavy returns in taxes.

The benefits of industrial progress in conjunction with a balanced agricultural development afford the maximum of prosperity to all classes, and it is the wise part of governmental policy to encourage this development in all practical and proper ways. If the state of Wisconsin could have a man like Kohler for governor for a number of years and would be guided by his advice and experience, its prosperity and well-being would be greatly enhanced.

TOO MANY POOR LAWYERS

One thing this country needs, says Dean Dunmore of the Western Reserve Law school, is fewer lawyers. He is not so much concerned, though, with quantity as he is with quality. He says the trouble is, so many of the lawyers are not good lawyers. He blames that largely on law schools.

"There are two kinds of law schools," he explains. One uses the pour-in method, a plan of pouring information and hoping that it will bring results. The other school tried to give the man power to think in lawyer-like fashion. The difference between a good law school and a poor one is the difference in the method used.

"The schools using the pour-in method are doing very little good. They are the schools that are turning out the vast number of lawyers. Legal education should be of university grade if men are to be sent out as representatives of the profession. There are too many lawyers because there are too many schools whose chief aim is profit."

That is plain talk. But it may not do any good. Every law school will agree, and point an accusing finger at the other law schools.

HOOSAC TUNNEL

On Nov. 27, 1873, the Hoosac tunnel, piercing a spur of the Green Mountain range in Massachusetts, was completed at a cost of about $20,000,000.

The tunnel is on the line of the Fitchburg railroad and passes through a southern extension of the Green Mountains known as Hoosac mountain, at an altitude of 713 feet.

It is 3-4 miles long, and was driven from the two ends and from an intermediate shaft 1,028 feet deep. Work was begun originally in 1855 and there were many delays due to lack of funds and the obstacles encountered.

The tunnel proper was completed in 1872, but several additional years were consumed in the masonry work. The tunnel is 21 feet wide in the widest part and 22 feet 8 inches high, and carries two lines of railway track.

The maximum height of the Hoosac range is 2,400 feet and is reached about a mile south of the tunnel.

FLASHES FROM HOLLYWOOD

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—Paralleling the short-lived glory of most movie stars, Hollywood's far-famed cafes and restaurants also seem to have their rise and fall.

There is one such establishment here which ascended to prosperity because it became a favorite rendezvous of the cinema twinklers, but the very brilliance of its success now is leading to a decline in popularity.

Certain occasions which "dedicated" to the movie people—and incidentally to the villages and towns where they troop along to stare at them—have become so extremely popular that it is next to impossible to force a way through the crowds to one's table, even though a reservation has been made days in advance.

And rather than bother with such annoyances, many flicker folk are basking themselves elsewhere, to the newer resorts making bids for their patronage, or to the dignified seclusion of the swank hotels.

The "new" places, making deep inroads on the income of their rivals, are rising high on the crest of the wave. And riding perhaps to a fall. The pendulum may swing again.

HELP HOME OWNERS

A big real estate convention recently sought means to make home-owning more general than it is. At intervals the banks and other leading agencies are pretty well "loaned up" on real estate. Yet the home-owning need may not be met. To meet this public need the realty men proposed that an agency be established something like the Federal Reserve Bank system, in which mortgages might be pledged as security for home-building funds.

Coming on top of the ambitious program for farm relief, this plan might be objected to as involving the government pretty heavily in novel financing projects. The purpose might be attained more simply by utilizing the Federal Reserve system itself, organizing within it a branch to handle real estate mortgages and supply building loans. This may not be necessary. With less money pouring into Wall street for stock speculation, it is natural to expect there will soon be more funds available everywhere for legitimate real estate loans.

Waiting in the Cold Damp Night

In our answer to S. V. G. a question you neglected one thing. Please tell us what was it that caused the daughter to contract pneumonia as she waited on the lamp for the man to supply for her father's body. (C. M.)

Answer—I haven't the slightest idea. I merely assert that there is no reason to imagine that "Xposure" to cold in such circumstances can cause pneumonia or any other illness.

Pneumonia is a fairly common infection; possibly the daughter was already infected and in the stage of incubation (about to come down with) the illness when the accident occurred.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—It must have done the heart of Senator Jim Watson a lot of good to hear his colleagues in the senate say the things they did just before he left for Florida to take an ordered rest.

It was a severe blow to the robust Hoosier when his doctor told him he must get away from Washington for a while. To leave the senate at this time, just when the tariff bill is in its most critical stage, and to quit his post as majority leader at the time he is needed most, struck Watson as being almost impossible.

But his physician was adamant. The hot months of this summer, when as a members of the finance committee Watson sat listening to witnesses from early morning until sometimes late at night, had told on him. His friends have known all along that he has worked himself in to a frazzle in his efforts to see the tariff bill through. And they were not surprised when a rest was commanded.

GENIAL

That Jim Watson is one of the most popular members of the senate is conceded by all. His makes his genial presence felt wherever he goes. Not uncommon is it to see him immediately after dinner skimming the floor strolling down the corridor of the capitol arm in arm with the colleague with whom a moment before he had clashed.

Thus, when it became known to senators that the republican leader was to leave them, it was but natural at this veterans like Hiram Johnson, Pat Harrison, Borah and Fletcher took time to speak of their old friend in a personal vein.

"As one who has known the senator from Indiana for a quarter of a century," said Johnson, "I can say who knows his present physical condition, I wish him Godspeed in his endeavor to regain his health."

"I trust that he will return to us the same old Jim Watson that he was in the past, and that he may be with us for many, many years in the future."

Democrat tied with republican in applauding Johnson's sentiments.

Fletcher arose to observe that he was satisfied the orange juice and sunshine of Florida would cure all of Watson's ills, and Borah remarked that there could be no doubt that

RELATIONS WITH LATIN - AMERICA MUCH BETTER NOW

Exports Show Greater Increase Than to Any Other Continent

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Domestically we are devoting our attention to business conditions and tariff legislation and in the international field we are looking forward to the London naval conference. So we are not giving much thought to Latin America.

But it was just about a year ago that Mr. Hoover, then president-elect, was on his way to visit "the Latin-American Republics on his good will tour."

Anyone who gives any thought to the matter at this late date seems bound to admit that the tour "worked." The seeds of good will were not sown on barren soil and they have been producing some kind of a crop. The Latin-American diplomats here who are given to frank discussion assert that the spirit of relations between the United States and "the countries of South and Central America has improved immensely. They gave Hoover the credit.

The most important factor has been the absence of anything to mar the good impression Hoover made. Latin America seemed to take it for granted that they might expect a more friendly attitude in the Hoover administration than it had found in the Coolidge administration. That assumption probably was well founded, but it has been especially true that international relations in the hemisphere have failed to produce anything that might have called for harsh words or developed a situation calculated to re-arouse Latin suspicions and dislike. We have been pulling out of Nicaragua, have been nicer than ever to Mexico and have not had the least trouble anywhere else unless you count in a domestic issue such as the tariff bill, which has worried Argentina and Cuba.

Latin America has been abandoning the idea of an American political imperialism. It has become quite evident that the United States is not bent on any policy of territorial conquest and the days when it might easily have followed such a policy—and did not—are gone. On the other hand, a policy for the creation of instruments for

HOLD TAG DAY AT KIMBERLY SATURDAY

A tag day for the Volunteer Rescue Army, an organization contributing to destitute children and mothers, will be held Nov. 30 at Kimberly, it has been announced. Mrs. Ed Franz will have charge of the work, solicitations to be made by Camp Fire girls. Kimberly merchants have donated prizes to children making the largest collections. The headquarters for the drive will be at Mrs. Franz' home, 45 Sidney-st. Kimberly.

peace conciliation and arbitration has been obvious.

The Spanish-speaking people probably also have realized that there is a great mass of popular opinion in the United States opposed to the idea of imperialism and to difficulties of any kind with the countries of this hemisphere. This opposition did not head off the original Coolidge-Kellogg strong arm paces toward Mexico and Nicaragua, but it did embarrass the administration and undoubtedly had much to do with the softening of those policies.

Not now fearing political imperialism, the Latin-Americans have considered the problem of "economic imperialism"—capital investments, commerce, penetration of industrial technique, education of markets for American goods, mass production, chain stores and subsidiary companies. But there appears to be little worry about this phase among their leaders. It is realized that the United States itself absorbed the greatest amount of foreign capital in the history of the world and that no country can organize its production and accumulate capital simultaneously.

Hoover's theory was that trade might thrive between nations despite a lack of good will, but that friendly feelings were an important element in the foundation for its permanent maintenance. It is worth pointing out, however, that the last year has shown a greater proportionate increase in the value of our exports to Latin America than to any other continent. Exports to South America for the first nine months of 1929 were $120,285,000 as compared with $53,941,000 for the first nine months of 1928. Imports for the same period increased from $36,623,000 to $48,056,000.

Foreign diplomats in Washington have lately been pointing out in private conversation that a great contrast exists between the hard luck Mr. Hoover has been having at home—what with the stock market crash, the miserable position of his party in the Senate and other developments—and the splendid success he has had in his dealings to date with Latin America, Great Britain and other foreign nations.

TOKYO FOSTERS BIRTH CONTROL AMONG POOR

Tokyo—(P)—The capital of Japan is making official preparations to furnish birth control information to its poor in an effort to relieve the suffering that come from large families in poverty stricken homes.

This sociological experiment, especially startling in the Orient where ancestor worship has placed a premium on large families, is hailed by proponents of birth control as opening the way for application of this remedy on a national scale to Japan's overpopulation problem. Tokuichi Shirakami, deputy mayor of Tokyo, said it was the purpose to give information only to couples that already have four children and can show that they are too poor to care for more. Information will be denied to young, newly married couples and to persons of wealth.

Mr. Shirakami said that the municipality hoped birth control would help to lower the high infant mortality rate and eventually reduce the number of families dependent on official charity.

HE DOESN'T COUNT
"I should have thought," he said grumpily, "that, as this is my birthday, you would consider my wishes and have lemon pudding."

FARM SCHOOL Will REVISE MAIL LIST

Ask Farmers to Send in Cards Giving Newest Addresses

Due to persons constantly moving about, it is necessary for the Wisconsin College of Agriculture to revise its bulletin mailing list. Farmers wishing to remain on the list are asked to send in their cards, which will be sent them by the extension service of the college, according to County Agent Gus Seft.

During September, 133 requests for 1810 bulletins were filled by the college's mailing service. Students are normally a low priority for bulletin requests from farmers. Most of the bulletins were sent to schools.

October and November saw a decided increase in the number of farm requests. Farmers had to desire more reading matter during the late fall and winter months. Mrs. Adelaide Kiehn, who has charge of the college bulletin mailing service.

New topics of interest are constantly arising in the farm field. While some of the topics are those relating to dairy farming and crop production always are in demand, certain new topics of interest such as information in regard to the training and turkey culture loom up and come to the fore.

"There seems to be an overwhelming interest in turkeys right now as innumerable requests come in requesting bulletins in regard to raising and marketing them," says Miss Kleinheinz.

Thus far, the college has supplied farmers, homemakers, and scientists with no less than 409 different kinds of bulletins dealing with as many different subjects or phases of subjects. In addition, 233 circulars, 93 special bulletins, 95 research bulletins, and about 25 special bulletins have emanated from the college.

Supplies of oxygen, water and food are carried with it.

Many well dressed Parisian women prefer the tailored suit to one-piece dresses under their street coats of fur. In many instances the fur is worn as a lining to a coat made of the same material as the suit.

Small flecks of white in black or dark blue; pin point dots of white and tiny arrow heads of white on dark suitings are among the smartest materials for tailors.

With the tailors are worn white satin blouses or tulle blouses of lace. The lace blouse is more often the accompaniment of broadcloth suits.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

A WORRIED picture of Mr. Merryman with his baffled, disappointed eyes followed Sue as she went down the walk to Harry's car. Her father had played fairly, been honest and got left, she must have had her mother. Fair play was all right but one had to have courage to fight for one's rights along with it.

Harry's voice interrupted her mental journeyings. It was a whole, some, honest, merry voice and the sound young man, whose father was worth several times more money than any other man in the city, was looking at her with wonder on his boyish face.

"Don't worry, Sue. You're a peach to be so nice about all that mess. Everything will be all right."

Sue flashed him a glad smile and squeezed his hand impulsively as it rested on the wheel. "Harry, you're pure gold."

His face grew more serious and he was quiet for a long minute.

"I have an idea instead of going to the private beach, I'd like to try a public one where there are all sorts of water concessions. You know what I mean. Big balls to sit on, and see-saws. I've not been to one since I was 12 years old and ran away from boarding school."

"Then let's go! They're fun." She would have much preferred to float around the quiet waters of the quiet beach and watch the moon, which looked like a lemon caught in a tangle of stars.

"You surely ought to have some amusement in your life, Harry. A riding horse and two sports models and a private tennis court and golf course can't offer much to a bored young man."

"It depends on whom you're with," he came back quickly. "I hate to have people do things just to be polite. I can always tell. But—are you sure you want to go to the merry-go-round watering place?"

"Of course I do! It's too bad you never had any brothers and sisters to play with you. You would have adored a family."

"Some day I'll have one," he answered cheerfully. "And I'll let the gang play in every alley in town and the boys can peddle papers after school." He steered his car between two other cars that were perilously close and shot out again, unimpeded, on the long white road to the beach. "Being rich—I'm not bragging, it's no credit of mine that Dad knew how to coin money—is pretty comfortable, but it has a drawback or two."

"What kind of drawbacks?" Sue asked.

"I've always been afraid that it would be the jingle of my small change the girl would hear instead of my romantic voice."

"Love doesn't have regulations. When you fall you never know how it happened or think about such things," Sue told him.

"When marriage is a far better or worse proposition it usually goes far enough until the better gives way to the worse," the millionaire's son insisted. "I suppose money helps in either case. What is love, anyway?"

With anyone but Harry, Sue would have understood the road down which he was going. She had only a sense of amusement as she started to answer him.

Interesting Menus

By Sister Mary
New Service Writer

Many women like to serve tea and cookies at the close of the afternoon study club or committee meeting. Tiny home-made wafers are always appreciated.

The following cookie recipes are rather unusual. The cookies are especially good with tea or as an accompaniment for ice cream for dessert.

NUT PUFFS

One cup chopped walnut or pecan nut meats, 2 eggs, 1 cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1/2 cup flour, 1/4 teaspoon baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, few drops vanilla.

Roll sugar until perfectly smooth. Beat eggs until light and gradually beat in sugar and melted butter. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Add with nuts to first mixture. Add vanilla and drop into buttered muffin pans. Bake in a hot oven for eight minutes.

Jumbles are an old-time cookie popular with our grandmothers and particularly suitable for Thanksgiving time.

JUMBLES

One-half cup butter, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 egg, 1/3 cup milk, 2 1/2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, few drops nutmeg.

Add flour and liquid after nately to the first mixture. Add nutmeg and roll on a lightly floured molding board into a thin sheet. Cut with a doughnut cutter and place on buttered baking tins. Bake six to eight minutes in a hot oven.

MACAROONS

Whites 2 eggs, 3/4 cup granulated sugar, 1 cup shredded coconut, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla, few grains salt.

The Tinymites

By Hal Cochran

THE Tinies' sled then slid right in the ship. This made the whole bunch grin. "Gee, we were lucky," Scouty cried. "The thought that frightened me was that we'd leave this little track, sail in to the air and go kersack upon the tossing water and be ducked within the sea."

"But this big boat just saved us. Gee, I wonder who's ship this can be. It's now in the coal hold and I cannot see a thing. Our sled's all right. We'll keep it near. Perhaps we'll want to skip from here. Somebody yell hello and we will see who that will bring."

The bunch began to look around but not a thing but coal was found. Said Cloway, "I'm not sure that it is wise for us to shout. 'Twould be much better if we'd wait until we all investigate this ship a bit and thus find out what it is all about."

"A stairway must be right nearby. I'll lead the way and gladly try to climb right up it, cautiously, until I reach the deck. The next thing then for us to do, if we find men, is join the crew. There may be no one up on board. This boat may be a wreck."

They looked until the stairs were found and up it they were shortly bound. All of a sudden Coopy said, "I hear some men above. A sliding door is in our way. Shall we go up or shall we stay right here?" "Go up," another cried. "Just give the door a shove."

So, up on deck the whole bunch ran, and almost bumped into a man. "What ho!" he shouted. "Mercy me! Please tell me, who are you?" Before the Tinymites could say, some other men came right their way. The Tinies soon discovered 'twas the captain and the crew.

ABOUT 10 PER CENT OF MOTORISTS ARE CONSIDERED UNFIT

Some State Officials Would Weed Out Undesirable Automobile Drivers

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright, 1929, by Carson Press

New York—Following the news that the first nine months of 1929 was the most disastrous in the history of the country in the number of automobile deaths, it is now indicated that ten per cent of the motorists of America are unfit, either physically or morally, to drive an automobile, according to the records of 15 states, having nearly one-third of the total automobile registration at the close of last year.

These figures gathered by the Travelers Insurance company, show that in the 11 states covered by the inquiry, the license of 77,704 motorists were revoked, out of a total of 1,178,111 registrations. Principal causes for suspension and revocation of license were driving while under the influence of liquor, excessive speed and failure to report an accident.

In two of the states, all the suspensions and revocations resulted from driving while intoxicated, while in almost all the motor vehicle commissioner reported that 95 per cent of the suspensions were due to that cause.

Commissioners varied in their estimates of the proportion of unfit drivers, the figures ranging from three to fifteen per cent, but averaging about ten per cent. That physical defects are an important factor in the rising curve of traffic disasters was indicated by the report that 18,000 conditional licenses were issued as against nearly 50 times that number of regular licenses. This ratio indicates that one out of every 50 motorists suffer from some bodily ailment which might interfere with his ability properly to operate a car.

Several state officials, from whom data was sought, suggested an entire reexamination of all drivers, with a view to weeding out the unfit. The records of the eleven states showed that most of the accidents were caused by drivers of several years' experience, thus suggesting the possibility of some permanent incapacity among large numbers of experienced drivers. One official urged that there should be a check on such bodily or mental impairments which contribute to the increasing danger of motorists.

"If such a reexamination could be made," he said, "and thereafter a policy adopted by which every motorist who committed any offense whatever was at once re-examined by a high grade examining capable of studying human characteristics and under the direction of expert advice as to how to detect human imperfections, it would not be long before the ten persons out of every hundred who are making most of the trouble would be detected and to a large degree eliminated from the highways."

One state official in reporting a reduction in the number of accidents for a recent month pointed out that the "club of enforcement" was necessary in order to "slow down the wild ones." An official in another state in

GERMAN PROFANITY BRINGS FINE OF $50

Milwaukee — (P) — Margaret Shea, isn't German, but no one can swear in German in her house and get by with it. Especially when the sweeper emphasized his remarks by hurling a sticky paint brush at her.

She told Municipal Judge George A. Shaughnessy, who also isn't German, that Christian Temple, came to her house to paint. The painting wasn't so good, and she proceeded to tell the painter about it. Temple, lately from the Rhineland, was temperamental and profanely recanted implications against his work. Mrs. Shea said that she returned his verbal fire in more English, and then the painter threw a paint brush at her, hitting her recently mended broken arm. The judge fined the painter $50 on an assault charge.

THE LUXURY HUSBAND

CHAPTER 14
AN ACCIDENT

HENDERSON, holding the reins of Barbara, horse, was leaning close to her.

"Just one kiss," he was saying.

Through Barbara's mind flashed memories of how trifling a kiss had seemed to her before, something easier to give than refuse. But in the silliness of these English woods, Barbara felt she could not continue that sort of thing now she had Ray.

But she knew it would be hopeless to explain this to Henderson. Instead, she relied upon humor—

"Don't ask me to become sentimental in the daylight, Hendy," she chided him. "Let's push on. The others must be miles ahead already."

He did not press his point, but, she knew by his moody silence, that he was peevish about. Let him be unpleasant about it if he wanted to. Now they were out of the woods, approaching a mill stream. As she made towards it, Henderson said:

"Don't attempt to jump it, Barbara. It's wider than it appears."

The dictatorial note in his voice annoyed her.

"Poof, poof," she laughed over her shoulder. "If you can make it—I guess I can, too."

And with that, in a spirit of bravado, she cracked her whip and brought it down on the horse's flank, urging it forward.

Down the grassy bank it plunged, tossing its head and quivering its eagerness as it gathered forces for the spring. A moment—and it was over—but in making the opposite bank its heels slipped in the mud and it fell, bringing Barbara to the ground.

At first she appeared unhurt by the fall, but when she tried to rise, she discovered that she had twisted her ankle. She tried to laugh it off, assuring the man that it was of no consequence. Henderson picked her up in his arms and set her on her horse.

"Sure it doesn't hurt too much?"

"Sure," she assured him. But, of course, it did hurt.

It felt as though red hot poker were being whirled continuously in her ankle and she found herself longing for Ray.

She wanted Ray to fuss over her, to pet her and to tell her how inordinately brave she was being.

She kept urging her horse on, impatient to be back. In her mind's eye she could see Ray rushing forward to take her down off her horse after which he would carry her up the wide staircase and into their bedroom.

The groom was waiting to meet them. But nowhere could she see Ray and it was Henderson, finally who carried her into the hall.

"Is Mr. Lewther upstairs?" she asked the butler.

The man raised his eyebrows. "No, ma'am, he caught the four o'clock train to London." And then, in reply to Henderson's startled exclamation, "He said it was urgent business, sir. A telegram came for him just before noon."

Barbara relaxed limp in Henderson's arms, she stretched at that moment to go to bed. Business in London, what more?

But with the realization that the other guests were leaving at her beckoning, she managed to say:

"The wife came, did it? We were expecting it, and I'm not used to morning. How very annoying."

"Springing it on you, did it?" Henderson murmured, entering to the nation. "I'll bet a last party of it was as much of a shock to her as it was to the rest of us."

"Poor little lady," said the major, with some sentiment as he pulled at his moustache. "She ought to have had more sense than to marry a musician. What can one expect of a fellow who spends his life tooting a blasted horn?"

Upstairs in her room a white, bedragged Barbara was crumpling a sheet of paper into a little hard ball in her hands. Across it Ray had scrawled in his large, untidy writing:

"Barbara, dear one,

"What I have done will make you mad. It's going to make you feel awful mean to me, too. I'm leaving you for two or three days, but I'll be back in time to take you from this 'jolly house party, haw, haw,' as that dumbbell Major Perkins would say. You've got to trust me."

"My love,

"P. S.—Make my excuses to Henderson. Tell him that King George called me up for a private audition, if you like."

Barbara flung the note furiously into the wastepaper basket, her cheeks burning with the intensity of her rage. How dare he treat her in that casual manner! So furious was she in that moment that she wanted to do something desperate: throw a vase through the window or break up every stick of furniture in that room.

Instead she flung herself down on the bed, burying her hot, muddy face in the pillow. Never, she told herself, could she feel the same towards him again! Never. She determined on going straight back to the States and securing a divorce.

She raised her head abruptly, some one was knocking at the door.

"Who's there?"

"It's Hendy. I'm sending the maid up to look after you. Is there anything I can do for you, myself?"

Her answer was short and muffled.

"Nothing thanks."

"Will you be able to come down to dinner tonight, Barbara?"

She was about to reply decisively in the negative when she stopped herself, remembering that, at all costs, she must keep her end up before the other guests. Her hazel eyes hardened until they seemed like pin points and she called back, with an attempt at gaiety.

"Of course I'm coming. I'm coming even if you have to carry me downstairs. I'll tell the world I am!"

She heard his footsteps receding along the corridor and then, although her features contracted with the pain of her ankle, she forced herself to get up off the bed and limp about the room, as she made a feeble effort to change her clothing.

Standing here, at the vanity table, she murmured under her breath, "If I show you, Ray Lewther, you're not going to make a fool out of me a second time and get away with it! Never mind—I'm not going to sit around and mope for you! No, sir, I'll have a celebration! I'll have the time of my life!"

Strange that she started the celebration by suddenly leaning forward, her head in her arms, and bursting into tears.

Ray flees again—and once more Barbara learns how much she really needs him. Continue the story with tomorrow's chapter.

DOCTIL CRIMINALS

Madison—Criminals, especially murderers, are easily led, according to Henry Town, retired warden of Waupun prison. After 25 years in that capacity, Town says that it is state has on right to demand the life of a man as penalty for any crime. "A man who kills us any does so in the heat of passion," Town says. "He believes himself justified and when the deed is done, he takes his punishment with a decency which exceeds that of any other criminal."

ACTING HEAD OF WAR DEPARTMENT ONCE WAS COWBOY

His Personality Gives Him Ability to Make People Listen to Him

BY L. A. BROPHY
Washington—(AP)—Personality plus is the way Patrick J. Hurley, assistant secretary of war, is often described.

And the description is heard in the busy cubicles of the gray granite war, state and navy building where the country's military affairs are administered by multi-clad army men.

Across the Indian-streight shoulders of the assistant war chief descended the mantle of war department responsibility when James W. Good lost his courageous fight for life in Walter Reed hospital.

Hurley is a lawyer by vocation. For more than two decades, the military has been his avocation. He came into the war department, by Hoover appointment, last spring, and his advent has been likened to one of those hearty breezes of the wide open spaces that have played so important a part in his life.

Just under 50 now, the assistant secretary of war was born in the frontier nation, Indian Territory. He roamed the plains as a cowpuncher, took a fling at mining, and at 25 became an attorney in Tulsa, Okla., where he has lived since.

He carries his six feet odd with an erectness that testifies to his active life. He is easily one of the handsomest men in Washington public life.

An ability to make people like him, and to listen attentively and courteously to the troubles of anyone in his department—be the troubled one of high, low or intermediate rank—are commented upon as facts of his character brought out during his tenure as assistant secretary of war.

Colonel Hurley rose to the grade of lieutenant colonel during the world war and now is a reserve colonel—began his military service in 1902 as a captain of cavalry of the Indian Territorial volunteer militia. From 1914 to 1917 he was a captain in the Oklahoma national guard.

His ability in negotiating the army agreements with the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg won him the distinguished service cross, and a silver star citation was conferred upon him for a volunteer reconnaissance under heavy fire.

INNOCENT MAN FREED AFTER 20 YEARS TO WED KAFFIR WOMAN

"Her Faith in Me Comforted Me Tremendously," Londoner Declares

London—(AP)—Oscar Slater, who spent nearly twenty years of his life under sentence and conviction for murder, only finally to be exonerated and awarded $30,000 for wrongful imprisonment, was said by the Daily Mail today to be contemplating marriage with a full-blooded South African woman.

"My fiancée was born in Basutoland," the Mail quoted Slater in an interview given at Glasgow, "where her parents, who are wealthy, have plantations. I met her more than 20 years ago when staying in Paris. We were at the same hotel and became very friendly. She was then scarcely 20 years of age and had just finished her education."

"We wrote to each other occasionally but I did not see her for many years until one day when I was in Peterhead prison she came from Paris to see me. Her faith in me comforted me tremendously. Throughout the 19 years in prison, we wrote and when I was released we met in Glasgow and became engaged. She now is staying in Glasgow where the marriage may take place in April."

Slater was accused of the murder in 1908 of Miss Mary Gilchrist, an aged woman, although he was not arrested until the following year, when Glasgow agents met him as he stepped from the Lusitania at New York. He was extradited, tried, convicted and sentenced to death, his sentence later to be commuted to life imprisonment.

Scottish law at the time did not provide for criminal case appeals but from agitation growing out of Slater's case a special act of parliament was passed creating a court of criminal appeals for Scotland. His friends won international support for his case with representations that although a maid of the murdered woman had identified another man as the slayer this fact was not presented to the jury.

Finally, in July, 1928, the former verdict was set aside, Slater was given his freedom, and the government awarded him $30,000 damages for his wrongful imprisonment.

Slater's fiancée was said by the Mail to be of Jewish faith although more than a quarter of her people professed Christianity. They have a reputation for unusual intelligence and ability to make war. They are under British protection with white men from farming and prospecting for minerals. They have a distinct degree of home rule.

NEW JERSEY WON'T BE USED AS BACK YARD OF NEW YORK

Files Objection With Railroad Commission on Location of Radio Stations

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright 1929, by Cons. Press
Washington—Use of New Jersey as the "backyard" of New York's metropolitan area is being stoutly resisted by Municipal, civic and broadcasting interests of the state in a case involving the all-important issue of state rights now being argued before the federal radio commission.

The delegation came to Washington to protest against the location in New Jersey of the new 50,000 watt transmitter of station WABC, heretofore of the Columbia broadcasting system. This high-powered transmission will "show a blinder of expression" over reception of local stations, the commission was told by Duane Minard, assistant attorney general of the state.

Backed by all of the little broadcasters located on the Jersey side, and armed with petitions and affidavits from listeners, Mr. Minard made an impassioned plea to save his state from the invasion of "foreign stations." He challenged the right of the commission to authorize the construction of a New York station in New Jersey, the radio law to the contrary notwithstanding.

Asking that the commission revoke the construction permit it has issued to the station so that the case of New Jersey might be presented not as a "post-mortem," the assistant attorney general vigorously attacked the proposed movement of the station to New Jersey territory, while its studios would be in New York. He charged that New Jersey has been discriminated against in the allocation of stations—that the people entitled to equality of reception, but are not getting it, and that to place the WABC transmitter in New Jersey was unconstitutional.

New Jersey, he said, was allocated 14 stations, of which nine are in the metropolitan area, or across the way from New York city.

But "nine foreign stations, which kill the efficiency of our own nine stations," are located on the Jersey side, he said.

"CLAIM DISCRIMINATED
"Under the declaration of congress," he shouted, "we have been discriminated against. For every negative you've put a positive in New Jersey. It's just like a football team; there are nine men to take every other man."

Chairman Robinson of the commission, explained that under the radio law a station is credited to the state in which the studio is located, and its transmitter. But this did not assuage the assistant attorney general. He said it did not fit in the New York City-New Jersey situation.

"New Jersey is entitled to an absence of interference with its broadcasting industry," he explained. "Because of geographical conditions and the local situation, it suits the convenience of New York City better to go over into New Jersey. One state has the right to say to another state 'keep your nuisances out of our state.' Now a transmitter is a nuisance in the state in which it is located."

of any other state, Mr. Minard said it was not going to let a transmitter come in and kill off our industry. He said that New Jersey may even try to get the nine New York transmitters now located within its borders "out."

The assistant attorney general said that besides being a "detritment to reception," the location of a 50,000 watt transmitter in Essex county, as proposed for WABC, would mean a loss of business to radio dealers.

He said that 9 per cent of radios are bought on the installment plan in New Jersey, and they would be sent back to the dealers, once the local reception was blanketed out.

"New York city is dumping its garbage on our shores, and we're in the supreme court to stop it," he said. "New York City is going to take 600,000 gallons of water a day from the Delaware River, and we're going to stop it. New York city provides higher services free, and we're in the interstate commerce commission to stop it. New York city has nine broadcasting transmitters in New Jersey and we're going to stop it."

Station WJZ, one of the "key" stations of the National Broadcasting Company, the transmitter of which is located at Bound Brook, N. J., when first installed, blanketed New Jersey stations, he continued.

"They gave New Jersey listeners wire traps, and filters; anything just to keep them quiet," he said. He added that New Jersey wanted no recurrence of this condition.

TEXAS LINES TO SHARE IN IMPROVEMENT WORK

Fort Worth—Texas lines will share in the $14,000,000 new equipment and improvement contracts awarded Nov. 15 by the Frisco system, according to president J. M. Krum.

The chief improvement in Texas will be the replacing of all light rails by heavy steel. Some new equipment will be diverted to the Frisco subsidiaries in Texas.

Company, the transmitter of which is located at Bound Brook, N. J., when first installed, blanketed New Jersey stations, he continued.

"They gave New Jersey listeners wire traps, and filters; anything just to keep them quiet," he said. He added that New Jersey wanted no recurrence of this condition.

NEW ORLEANS WARS ON RADICAL GROUPS

American Legion Asked by Official to Help "Rid City of the Pests"

New Orleans—(AP)—In a campaign to stamp out radicals conducted by city authorities under Acting Mayor T. Sammes Walmesley and endorsed by National Commander O. L. Bodenhamer of the American legion, four suspects were in custody today.

Charged with violating a state law prohibiting the advocacy of the destruction of the government of the United States, Victor Aronson and

William J. Davids were arrested Monday near a cotton mill while distributing literature which police described as radical. The state law was enacted in 1917.

John S. Morgan, seaman and Leonard Brown, a Negro, were arrested as "dangerous and suspicious characters."

At the headquarters of the Marine Workers league where pamphlets were seized they were quoted as saying they were organizers for the league and that Davids and Aronson were members.

Acting Mayor Walmesley at a luncheon for Commander Bodenhamer asked the cooperation of legion members in "riding the city of the pests" and the commander said that his request should be granted "without regard to politics in stamping out the pests."

Letters addressed to the International Defense in New York were taken from the suspects. One of them requested legal assistance for Aronson and Davids.

HOW DO YOU FEEL ON ARISING?
Very likely your kidneys control four answers. Fine, to awake with a lively healthy energetic body. Miserable to drag an aching tired weary body from a restless sleepless bed.

S. L. Kramer, Stillerville, Pa., says "Now when I feel that way, I take Foley Pils diuretic." They regulate the kidney action and restore healthy activity; remove the haunting dread of ill health, brighten the mental outlook. Foley Pils diuretic will satisfy you. For sale by Schlimm Bros. Co.

tations have grown up. The government is asking each group to elect its own chairman and executive committee so that the selections will be on a democratic basis and not on the basis of government dictation or choice.

Already the wheels of the government have begun to grind. The groups are to stimulate activity within their own ranks and participate in the general plan of promoting confidence in the economic progress of the country. The government group headed by the president is effecting an organization with the state governors in the hope of bringing about construction of public works on a large scale. The transportation interests and utility companies fall within the business group and their situation already has been canvassed to determine possibilities of expansion.

The latest move in transportation is the announcement that the government will award mail contracts which will permit the building of many new merchant ships, assuring a consumption of steel which will help offset any slack due to automobile decreases.

Agriculture is embarking on a road building program and the construction of warehouses and farm buildings. The federal government and the state can add to road construction and the federal farm board is making loans available for the building of storage plants and distributing facilities.

Labors is cooperating on the basis of maintaining industrial peace in the all-important task of assisting in the flow of unemployed labor to centers needing skilled as well as unskilled help.

M'CORMICK CASE, LONG SILENT, MAY BE AIRED IN COURT

See Outstanding Legal Battle Over Him and His $50,000,000 Estate

BY DAN THOMAS

Santa Barbara, Calif.—A 54-year-old mentally unbalanced man and his $50,000,000 estate are the center of the outstanding legal battle in the history of this quaint old Spanish town.

Featuring the case is the odd question of the relative merits of psychoanalysis and gland treatment in the cure of mental disorders as contrasted with the usual methods. An array of psychiatrists, psychoanalysts, endocrinologists and internists may testify.

Guardianship of Stanley McCormick, "oldest son of the late Cyrus McCormick, 'harvester king,'" who for some years has been a mental case, is now in the hands of his wife, Mrs. Katherine McCormick, and his brother and sister, Harold F. McCormick and Mrs. Anna McCormick Blane.

For some time Mrs. McCormick has charged that Dr. Edward Kempf of New York, and other specialists employed by his brother and sister, are alienating his affections for her. By Dec. 1 Dr. Kempf will have received a total of $300,000 for treating the invalid multimillionaire. The wife also charges that the treatment given or these specialists is not for the best interest of the patient and that Dr. Kempf has barred her from the 40-acre McCormick estate near here.

WIFE SEEKS SOLE RIGHT

On these grounds Mrs. McCormick is suing to have Harold McCormick and Mrs. Blane removed as guardians of her husband's estate and to have herself appointed his sole guardian.

A millionaire through a prisoner, McCormick lives within stone walls on his vast California estate surrounded by utmost luxury. He has his own orchestra, his own motion picture theater, and a small army of servants. His upkeep costs $150,000 a year.

Back in 1902, Stanley McCormick was active in promoting the merger of McCormick, Deering and other agricultural implement interests. In 1904 he married. In 1908 he was stricken, and in 1909 he was adjudged incompetent and three guardians were named, including his wife.

PSYCHO-ANALYSIS TREATMENT USED

Fortunes have been spent in efforts to cure the malady, but Mrs. McCormick insists there has been little improvement. She accuses her husband's brother and sister and the doctors of attempting to alienate his affections for her and of practicing psycho-analysis toward the end, instead of employing the usual methods of treatment.

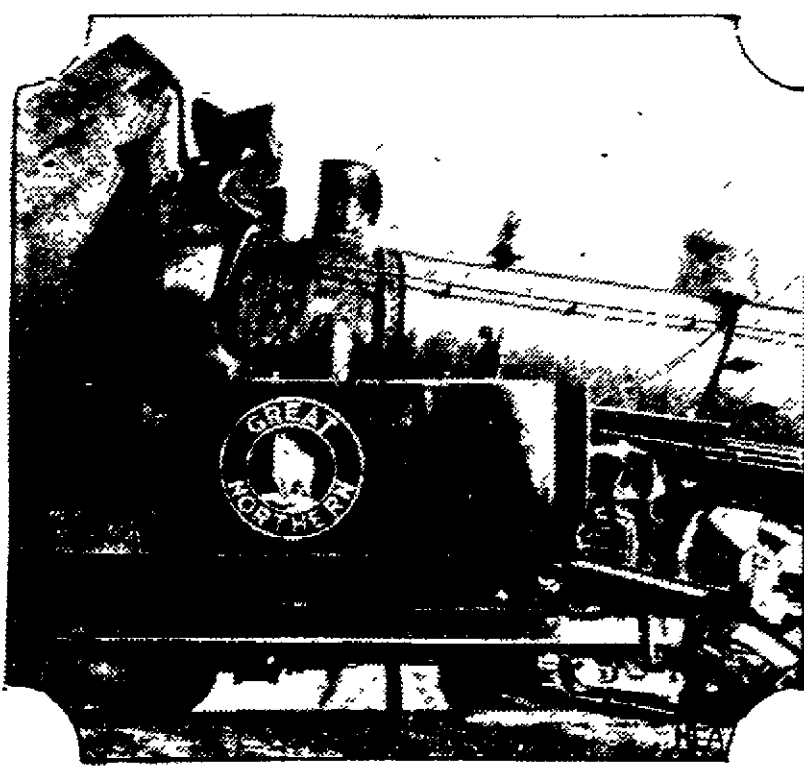

Harold McCormick and Mrs. Blane, and their doctors, however, insist that his case requires such treatment and that he is responding.

The trial opened with both sides prepared to fight to the bitter end for custody of McCormick and his millions. A corps of legal advisors, headed by Newton D. Baker secretary of war under President Wilson, will attempt to give Mrs. McCormick's charges in turn the testimony of medical experts. And Oscar L. Laver, Jr., chief counsel for Harold McCormick and Mrs. Blane, has his own medical experts who will testify that treatment given the patient has been for his best interests.

It is reported that the whole history of the Stanley McCormick case, kept secret for many years, will be aired at the trial.

Strawberries have been developed in Germany that weigh nearly three ounces apiece.

SCHEDULE EXAMS FOR CIVIL SERVICE JOBS

Madison—(P)—The state civil service board, now known as the bureau of personnel, has announced examinations for major state positions, to be held in late November and early December. A deputy inspector under the department of agriculture and markets to be paid $1,300 a year, will be selected from examinations held Dec. 7. The secretary for the real estate board, earning $4,000 annually, will be selected from persons examined Nov. 30. A new position, chief of the division of cooperative marketing, will be filled from those examined here Dec. 7. This post will pay $3,900 a year. A salary of $3,300 has been set for the new secretary to the board of agriculture and markets. Examinations for these offices will also be held Dec. 7. Candidates for these positions will submit their bids by Dec. 2 and be examined four days later. The position will pay $2,700 annually. Fiscal and restaurant inspectors will be examined Dec. 22.

PATRONS URGED TO SEND MAIL EARLY

Zuehlke Appeals to Appleton People to Do Christmas Mailing Soon

Mail Christmas packages, letters and post cards early.

That was the appeal made this week by William H. Zuehlke, acting postmaster at the Appleton post office.

The postmaster general has instructed that the maximum number of employees possible be enabled to spend the holiday with their families, Mr. Zuehlke announced, and as a result there will be no carrier deliveries, city or rural, nor window service on Christmas day.

All work in the postoffice will be suspended from midnight Dec. 24 until the following morning except that special delivery mail will be handled as usual and regular holiday collections and dispatches of first class mail and newspapers will be made and a number of employees sufficient only for this purpose will be on duty.

Christmas falls on Wednesday and the postoffice also will be closed Sunday, Dec. 22, so Postmaster Devine urges that mail be dispatched early enough to insure delivery on or before Saturday, Dec. 21. Parcels may be mailed "Do not open until Christmas."

WHAT DID MADGE DO WITH HER FAT?

ALL over the country, men and women are wondering at the slender figures of today. Excess fat is rare now, compared with years ago.

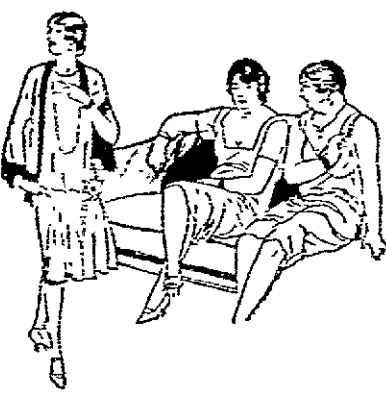

These people do not starve themselves of elements they need. They employ a modern, scientific method to combat the cause of fat. The cause usually lies in an under-active gland, which largely controls nutrition.

Modern physicians, in treating obesity, do not advise starvation. They feed the gland substance which is lacking. Thus the whole world has changed, in late years, as regards the over-fat.

A famous medical laboratory embodied the method in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. They have told others about them and shown the results, in new youth and beauty, new health and vitality. Today the use of Marmola is unprecedented.

Every box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. When fat disappears, and new health and vigor come, you know why.

Try Marmola, and watch the results for a little while. If you see the fat go and new vigor come, keep on until the trouble is corrected. Then tell your friends who need it. It is folly to suffer an abnormal condition so easily corrected. Go get Marmola now.

Marmola's prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 a box. Any druggist who is out will gladly order for you.
